For Hindus, it often signifies the return of Lord Rama to Ayodhya, after his 14 years of exile and victory over Ravana., lightened throughout the kingdom. Diwali, or Dipawali, is India's biggest and most important Festival of the year. The festival gets its name from the row (avali) of clay lamps (deepa) that Indians light outside their homes to symbolize the inner light that protects from spiritual darkness. This festival is as important to Hindus as the Christmas to Christians.

Over the centuries, Diwali has become a national festival that's also enjoyed by non-Hindu communities. For instance, in Jainism, Diwali marks the nirvana, or spiritual awakening, of Lord Mahavira on October 15, 527 B.C.; in Sikhism, it honors the day that Guru Hargobind Ji, the Sixth Sikh Guru, was freed from imprisonment. Buddhists in India celebrate Diwali as well. Diwali is a great joyful occasion in India, one cannot imagine the delightful contribution of this glorious festival. It is certainly one of the greatest festivals in the world.

NANAK
JAYANTI

Guru Nanak Jayanti is one of the oldest festivals of the Sikh religion. It is celebrated on the birthday of the first Sikh guru after whom the festival is named. Guru Nanak began teaching the importance of the equality of all people, regardless of their caste, religion or gender. He taught that everyone is created by God's will and therefore we must all be treated equally and with respect. Today, Sikhs follow this teaching. Guru Nanak was the founder of Sikhism and also known as Baba Nanak. He was born in 1469 on 15th April in Talwandi, Pakistan. Nanak composed many hymns in the Adi Granth by the fifth Sikh Guru - Guru Arjan in 1604. Guru Nanak Jayanti is the most noteworthy festival.
