Director's Message

Dear Parents, Guardians and Students,

As we step into another exciting term, I would like to extend a warm welcome to all our new and returning families. It is a privilege to lead a school where each child's potential is nurtured and celebrated. I want to take a moment to share a few highlights and updates as we embark on this journey together.

First, I am proud of the continuous efforts our teachers and staff put into creating a vibrant learning environment. Their dedication to fostering creativity, critical thinking, and character development is truly commendable. This year, we are introducing new programs that aim to enhance students' academic and personal growth, including expanded extracurricular activities and support for mental wellness.

We are also committed to keeping communication between the school and families open and transparent. Our newsletters, the school website, and regular parent-teacher meetings will provide you with timely updates and information on school events and progress. Please feel free to reach out if you have any questions or concerns. We believe that a strong partnership between home and school is key to every child's success.

As always, safety remains a top priority for us. With ongoing developments, we continue to review and enhance our safety protocols to ensure a secure environment for all our students. We appreciate your cooperation in adhering to the guidelines we have in place.

Finally, I encourage every student to take advantage of the many opportunities available this year, from academic challenges to artistic endeavors and sports. Together, let's make this term a rewarding and enriching experience for all.

Thank you for your ongoing support. Here's to another successful and inspiring school year!

Warm regards

Principal's Word

Dear Parents Warm Greetings!,

It gives me great pleasure to introduce the first edition of the Newsletter - a kaleidoscope that embodies the myriad learning opportunities provided at the school for the holistic development of the children. In the present times where the world is combating unprecedented challenges, it is important to equip students with the knowledge, values, and abilities, which will churn them as responsible citizens of the global community. In this regard, the school strives to nurture the essential skill sets of the students through transformative education, where students feel empowered, acknowledged and safe, besides actively participating in the teaching-learning process. The various activities designed to foster the skills of communication, collaboration, problem solving, critical thinking etc. are thoughtfully embedded in the curriculum to make the learning contextually relevant to the students' environments.

The newsletter provides a panoramic view of the school's endeavours towards all round development of the students. It's a reflection of the students' creative expression and achievements, which when acknowledged timely, boost the confidence of the budding artists and also motivate them. It also provides an insight into the robust environment that school nurtures to unleash excellence. In this regard, I appreciate the efforts of the editorial team in putting together the indigenous newsletter, encapsulating the glimpses of the school's academic, cultural and sports activities.

I thank our Parents for their support and trust in the school, motivating us to march passionately towards the shared vision. I thank the management for the inspiration and guidance in coming up with this new feature.

Hope you all enjoy the newsletter and appreciate the efforts....

Regards

Ultimate Brain Challenge!

Who Am I? (Guess the Person/Thing)

- I am tall when I am young, and short when I am old. I give light in the dark. What am I?
- I am not alive, but I grow. I don't have lungs, but I need air. I don't have a mouth, but water kills me. What am I?
- I can fly without wings. I can cry without eyes. Wherever I go, darkness follows me. What am I?

Think Fast!

Rapid Shots:

- What is always coming but never arrives?
- What has a neck but no head?
- If you throw a red stone into the blue sea, what will it become?

HOD's Message: Insights from the desk of HOD'S

Dear Students, Teachers and Parents

As we continue to navigate the fascinating world of language and literature, I am thrilled to see our students' progress and enthusiasm in embracing the power of words. Language is more than just a tool for communication; it is a bridge to understanding diverse perspectives and connecting with the world around us. This term, we've focused on fostering creativity, honing analytical skills, and encouraging students to express themselves confidently and clearly.

Let's keep this momentum going and continue to support each other in this journey of learning and self-expression. I am immensely proud of the achievements we have accomplished together and look forward to more enriching experiences in the days to come.

Dear Students, Teachers and Parents

Education is the key to unlock your potential. School is not just a place to learn, but a journey to discover, grow, and evolve. Embrace the challenges, ask questions, and seek answers. Build lifelong friendships, create unforgettable memories, and find your passions. Every lesson, every assignment, and every experience shapes you into a brighter, wiser, and more compassionate individual.

Take pride in your education, and let it empower you to change the world!"

Ms. Swapna Reddy

Head of the Mathematics Department

My Journey /Journey of a Teacher

"Every teacher's journey begins with a moment of realization—a calling, sparked by an inspiring teacher or a passion for a particular subject. It is often a transformative experience, marked by challenges, growth, and profound impact on students and the community. One of the most rewarding aspects of teaching is the relationships formed with students. Teachers often become mentors, confidants, and role models, witnessing not only academic growth but also personal development. These connections can last a lifetime. The impact of a teacher can be profound, sometimes altering the trajectory of a student's life.

Ultimately, the journey of a teacher is about passion, dedication, and a deep commitment to shaping the future. It is a path filled with ups and downs, but at its core lies the profound understanding that teaching is not just a profession; it is a vocation—a lifelong journey of making a difference, one student at a time."

$$\triangle - \bigcirc = 4$$

What is the Value of $\triangle$  and  $\bigcirc$  ?

Soul's Compass

- *Heart beats around 3 billions times in a life time*
- *Pumps over 1.5 million barrels of blood in a life time

Social science educators play a crucial role in not only imparting knowledge but also in fostering critical thinking, empathy, and civic responsibility. Their responsibilities extend far beyond the classroom, impacting the personal and intellectual development of students. Social sciences are inherently complex and often involve discussions about diverse cultures, politics, and economic systems. Our department encourages students to think critically about the world around them. Teachers guide students in analyzing primary sources, interpreting data, and drawing conclusions about cause-and-effect relationships in society, challenging students to question assumptions, debate different viewpoints, and support their ideas.

Our department plays a significant role in fostering a sense of civic responsibility among students. We incorporate a variety of strategies and learning experiences to acquaint students with the world around them. Through thoughtful debates and discussions, we harness students' logical and critical thinking, enabling them to become informed and active citizens who can contribute positively to human welfare and progress."

First Day of School

#Happy schooling. The first day of school can be exciting and a little nervous, but it's a fresh start to make new friends, learn new things and have new experiences.

We are thrilled to introduce our new principal, Dr. Mamtha Singh, who brings 23 years of teaching and administrative excellence to our community. As we gear up to resume classes post-summer vacation, Dr. Singh looks forward to fostering a positive, inclusive, and dynamic environment for our students.

The pre-primary kids enjoyed a vibrant beginning to their schooling journey, engaging in various fun-filled activities. Additionally, ice-breaking sessions were conducted in classrooms to warmly welcome new students, ensuring a smooth and joyful start to the academic year.

Parent Orientation

A Parent Orientation Program is an essential event to introduce parents to the school's philosophy, academic expectations, and policies. It serves as a bridge between parents and educators, fostering a collaborative environment for the child's development. With the above aim, the school conducted a Parents Orientation Session for the Academic Year 2024-2025.

During the orientation, parents were familiarized with the curriculum, school rules, and daily routine the children would follow. Category wise, the coordinators presented the learning objectives for the year, the assessment methods, and the ways in which parents can support their child's learning at home. The orientation enabled the new parents to understand the school's approach to holistic development and also familiarize themselves with the staff, and ask questions regarding academic and extracurricular activities.

The program helps build a strong partnership between parents and the school, ensuring that students are supported both at school and at home, leading to a more enriching and successful educational experience.

School Elections (29th June, 2024)

"If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more, you are a leader." Close on the heels of the above quote, The Sanskriti School believes in churning leadership qualities among the students by providing opportunities to take up leadership in different capacities. Student Council Elections is one such event, which empowers enthusiastic students to embark on their leadership journey and shape their school community. The process began with the grade X students' nominations to various posts. This was followed by a panel interview, where the vision, clarity and confidence of the aspiring nominees was tested by a team of panelists. Short listed students designed their logos and campaigned for three days consecutively, besides their vociferous speeches in the school assembly. The corridors buzzed with colorful posters, emphasizing key issues like school spirit and inclusivity.

On the election day, students cast their votes through secret ballots, practicing democracy and expressing their opinions on future leadership. The counting was done by a team of teachers and the elected representatives of the school were announced in the special assembly. The school elections instill a sense of responsibility, integrity and commitment among the young leaders and also enable the young citizens to think and act wisely while choosing their leaders.

- * You can't hum when holding your nose. Try it! When you hum, air has to pass through your nose to produce the sound. Holding your nose prevents the airflow, making it impossible to hum.
- * There's a species of jellyfish that is biologically immortal. The Turritopsis dohrnii jellyfish, also known as the "immortal jellyfish," can revert its cells back to their earliest form and start its life cycle anew, potentially living forever under the right conditions.
- * Humans and giraffes have the same number of neck vertebrae. Despite their long necks, giraffes have only seven neck vertebrae, the same number as humans. Their vertebrae are just much larger and elongated!
- * The Eiffel Tower can grow taller in the summer. The iron in the Eiffel Tower expands in the heat, causing the tower to grow by up to 6 inches (15 centimeters) during hot weather.
- * Tardigrades can survive in space. Also known as water bears, tardigrades are microscopic creatures that can survive extreme conditions, including the vacuum and radiation of outer space. They can endure environments that would be lethal to most other forms of life.

Weaving a story of skill and Heritage

Weaving in India dates back to the Indus Valley Civilization, with evidence of cotton weaving at Mohenjo-Daro. Over time, techniques evolved, flourishing under the Mauryan, Gupta, and Mughal empires, producing luxurious textiles like muslin and silk. Before British rule, India was a global leader in textile production, but mechanized fabrics replaced traditional handlooms, causing a decline. Today, traditional weaving, including khadi and silk, has been revived, preserving India's textile heritage. However, the handloom industry struggles against power looms, where weavers face higher production costs and lower wages. While power looms produce cheaper textiles, handloom weavers craft unique, high-quality fabrics but often earn little. Government support is crucial to save the industry. Providing subsidized raw materials, promoting handloom products, and ensuring fair wages would help preserve this cultural heritage and improve weavers' livelihoods.

More government intervention is required to save this industry. The government can provide raw material at subsidized costs, and help with marketing and sales, since wholesale dealers demand that handloom saris are sold at power looms rates. Weavers can also be provided schemes.

PROCESS

Dyeing is the first step in the process. Threads are dipped in piping-hot water, which is mixed with dye power. It is then rinsed in cold water and hung to dry.

Once the yarn is dyed, it is hung to dry before it can be bundled together for weaving.

This is called warping. Once the yarn dries, it is separated and rolled into big bundles.

The women folk take the big bundles of yarn and make smaller ones for weavers to use.

Sherlock Holmes and Madrigal Flipper

I was in Columbia the past week for the Mary Jane case and I came across a very weird town. First when I entered the small town in the Hills it was breathtakingly beautiful there were flowers growing on the walls, the weather was changing each passing minute. I was standing on a bridge appreciating Columbia natural beauty and all of a sudden there was an earthquake. I lost balance and the next thing I remember was that I was in a house with a woman feeding me something that healed all my wounds.

Until I found the reason of the magical family I talked to the oldest member of the family and she told me she was given the miracle after her husband's death in the Thousand Days War. I was still very confused. She told me there was a priest book that I could read to find more information about her family. The book was written in puzzle and she has never been able to decode the puzzle. My detective self was very excited to read the book. After days of drudgery, I was able to decode and the revelation left me and the family shocked. Their abuelo was God's incarnation sent on earth to protect the people, but man's cruelty knows no boundaries. God decided to split his power and make it available for generations by giving the madrigal family the miracle. The madrigal's story is DEFINITELY one for the books.

I am sorry my daughter did not know that you were on the bridge when she lifted it". I was very confused after hearing that, like why was she apologizing for an earthquake. When I went into the hallway of the house I was in my confusion multiplied. There was a little bit named Antonio talking to animals, a woman named Pepa had a raining cloud over her head, and a burning candle unbothered by the winds. Finally, my eyes landed on a girl, Louis lifting a piano with one hand shivers went down my spine and I started praying to myself. Which is when a girl called Dolores came and told me there is nothing to be scared of, we are not Haunted.

"How did you hear me?" I asked

"Because I am a special Madrigal" she replied. I was thrown out of the house by Casita the moving stairs. I thought to myself finally Mr Sherlock Holmes has found something that confuses him. Outside I asked a young girl called Mirabel what the case with the house was and another girl looking exactly like her came from the back. I looked at both of them with visible confusion until one of them somehow turned into a boy and introduced himself as Camilo and left. Seeing visible confusion on my face the girl told me that the magical people were her family and they were given the miracle 50 years back giving each of them a magical power. I asked her about her power and she told me she was going to be the future protector of the miracle. Around this time Dr Watson called because the Convict of the Mary Jane case has been found and arrested. The good news was that my job as a detective was done but my soul as a detective would not let me leave the town. But it was a great experience for me.

The Symbolism of the Bird of Hermes A Philosophical Perspective

The enigmatic Bird of Hermes is a potent symbol woven into mythologies and esoteric traditions. It embodies a complex interplay of themes related to strength, loyalty, regeneration, and self-destruction. The evocative line, "Bird of Hermes is my name, eating my wings to make me tame," captures a deep philosophical reflection on transformation and the nature of power.

Loyalty and Strength

In certain mythological narratives, the Bird of Hermes represents the paradox of servitude. Servants who pledge loyalty often surpass their masters in power and capability. This notion is embodied by the Bird of Hermes, which, though stronger than its master, sacrifices its own wings to symbolize taming and control. This act of consuming its own wings signifies a voluntary subjugation and a conscious choice to limit its own power to serve more effectively. It reflects a profound understanding of the dynamics of loyalty, where true strength is expressed not in dominance but in the ability to temper one's own power for a greater cause.

Regeneration and Self-Destruction

On a deeper level, the Bird of Hermes draws from the symbolic essence of the Phoenix, a mythic creature known for its regenerative cycle of death and rebirth. By consuming its own flesh and wings, the Bird of Hermes undergoes a process akin to the Phoenix's fiery rebirth. This self-consuming act is both a form of painful self-discipline and a method of transformation. The physical act of eating its own flesh is a symbol of the deep internal struggle and sacrifice required for renewal. This cyclical process of destruction and regeneration reflects the philosophical concept of the philosopher's stone—a mythical substance believed to turn base metals into gold and grant eternal life.

The Dual Nature of Transformation

The Bird of Hermes embodies the dual nature of transformation. On one hand, it illustrates the necessity of self-sacrifice and the inherent discomfort of growth. Eating one's own flesh is a metaphor for the often painful process of personal and spiritual evolution. On the other hand, it highlights the potential for profound renewal and strength that emerges from such sacrifice.

Parenting: Planting Seeds for a Brighter Tomorrow

Parenting is one of life's most rewarding yet challenging journeys. Each child is unique, and as parents, we hold the beautiful responsibility of nurturing and guiding them to reach their full potential. In today's fast-paced, tech-driven world, balancing digital exposure with meaningful real-life experiences is vital. Encouraging curiosity, creativity, and responsibility lays the foundation for children to thrive and grow into well-rounded individuals ready to embrace challenges. Discipline, when approached as guidance rather than punishment, teaches respect and accountability. Clear boundaries paired with consistent love help children feel secure and supported. Most importantly, as parents, we lead by example – children mirror what they see, making our actions more impactful than our words. Parenting isn't about perfection; it's about showing up with patience, dedication, and love. Together, let's empower our children to become compassionate, resilient, and capable leaders who will shape a better tomorrow.

Mental Health Awareness Among Teenagers.

Maintaining good mental health is essential for teenagers, facilitating emotional, social, and psychological development. It fosters the formation of healthy relationships and equips them to navigate life's challenges effectively. Overall, mental well-being is vital for fostering resilience and enabling adolescents to thrive both personally and socially. During adolescence, it is common for teens to experience a range of emotions, including anxiety and sadness. However, mental health disorders, such as anxiety, depression, Attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), and eating disorders, are marked by persistent symptoms that disrupt daily functioning. These conditions significantly impact relationships, academics, and overall well-being. Prioritizing mental health is essential for academic success and overall well-being. Students should take time to journal daily, set healthy boundaries, and engage in supportive networks. Effective stress management through mindfulness practices, alongside regular exercise, balanced nutrition, and sufficient sleep, fosters resilience and enhances productivity, contributing to a healthier and more fulfilling life.

Black Hole

A Mysterious Phenomenon

A black hole is an astronomical object with an incredibly strong gravitational pull, so powerful that not even light can escape it.

A black hole is an astronomical object with a gravitational pull so strong that not even light can escape. There are three types: stellar black holes, formed from collapsing stars; supermassive black holes, found at the centers of galaxies; and intermediate black holes, which are hypothetical. The structure of a black hole includes the event horizon, the point beyond which nothing can escape, and the singularity, where space and time curve infinitely. Near a black hole, objects undergo spaghettification, being stretched by its gravity, and time dilation causes time to slow down. Though black holes may be gateways to other universes, much remains unknown about them, including what lies within.

Metaphorical musings: Happiness springs from helping

When you lend a hand to a friend in need,
Happiness blossoms, it's a wondrous seed.
In giving, we find joy, in helping, we find peace,
A simple act of kindness, brings our hearts release.
The smile on their face, the warmth in their eyes,
Fills us with joy, lifts us to the skies.
In helping others, we find our own delight,
It's in these moments, that our spirits take flight.
So let's reach out, and spread some love around,
For in helping others, happiness is found. It's in these acts of kindness, that our souls sing,
Happiness springs from helping others, it's a beautiful thing.

Legacy Of Blood Dwells In Flames

In the heart of fire, I find my way,
A dance of power, yet I choose to stay.
Not in dominance, but in quiet grace,
I temper strength, in this sacred space.

For in each tear, a seed is sown,
Through pain and loss, the self is grown.
I shed the old, embrace the new,
In ashes cold, a flame breaks through.

A journey long, with steps unseen,
Where shadows fall, and hearts are keen.
In sacrifice, the spirit blooms,
From darkest nights, a light consumes.

To rise again, through trials fierce,
The soul, reborn, through edges pierced.
In every fall, in every rise,
A strength emerges, in disguise.

For in the struggle, I find the key,
To the self I am, and yet will be.
Through loss, through pain, I rise, renewed,
In the quiet strength of the subdued.

The path is hard, but I endure,
For in each scar, the heart is pure.
With wings of resolve, I soar on high,
A testament to the will, to fly.

The Power of Poetry in English.

Poetry is a unique and powerful form of expression that transcends language and culture. It captures emotions, tells stories, and conveys complex ideas in just a few lines. Poetry allows writers to express feelings that might be difficult to articulate in everyday language. Poems can resonate deeply with readers, creating a sense of shared experience. A few well-chosen words can evoke empathy and understanding.

The use of poetic devices like imagery, rhythm, and metaphor in poetry sparks creativity, encouraging readers and writers to think outside the box. It has the ability to challenge societal norms, heal wounds, and celebrate beauty. Whether in the form of a classic sonnet or a modern free verse, poetry can serve as a mirror reflecting our innermost selves, a window into other lives, or a bridge to understanding.

AFTERLIFE

It was a wet, gray, april sunday
The one I had wished to see one day.
Drifting through the mist,
I see fairies, ready to rid my wearies.
The clouds were ready to cry tears
And seemingly, it was time to face my fears.
I see unfamiliar silhouettes drifting towards the unknown,
And all sorts of trees, absurdly grown.
I looked at myself through a pond,
Only to find those similar absurd trees
And a weird, unsettling breeze.
The silhouettes seemed to know where to go,
and so did my subconscious.
I too drifted into the soon to be known
then became unconscious.
It was time to be separated.
For life,
Only to be repeated.

Contains fragments of my mind and soul

A Tribute to Ratan Tata: The Architect of Ethical Leadership

Ratan Tata stands as an indomitable titan in the realm of global business, embodying the rare confluence of visionary leadership and unwavering integrity. Born into the distinguished Tata family on December 28, 1937, his journey from an unassuming apprentice to the Chairman of Tata Group is a masterclass in resilience, foresight, and humility. Assuming leadership of the Tata Group in 1991, during India's epochal economic liberalization, Tata orchestrated a profound transformation. His strategic acumen was evident in landmark acquisitions such as Tetley Tea, Jaguar Land Rover, and Corus, which cemented the group's global stature.

Yet, his true brilliance lies not merely in expanding the conglomerate, but in his resolute belief that business should transcend profit, serving a higher social purpose. Through the Tata Trusts, he championed education, healthcare, and rural development, epitomizing the role of business as a force for societal upliftment. Tata's crowning achievement, the Tata Nano, symbolized his innovative genius and commitment to democratizing mobility. Though it faced challenges, the project underscored his relentless pursuit of solutions that impact the masses, showcasing a rare blend of pragmatism and altruism. What sets Tata apart from his contemporaries is his ethical stewardship. In an era often dominated by ostentation, he has remained a paragon of humility, leading with grace, empathy, and a deep commitment to his values. His legacy is not solely one of business success, but of a profound, lasting impact on society, inspiring future leaders to prioritize integrity, innovation, and social responsibility. Ratan Tata's story is a testament to the power of principled leadership and a reminder that true greatness is measured not by wealth or power, but by the positive change one leaves in the world.
